

SCOUTS ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET AND PAGEANT

Brilliant Street Parade Is Given, With Many Interesting Floats.

SHOWS WHAT SCOUTS CAN DO

Dr. Douglas S. Freeman and Frank Greenhawk Speak at Dinner Attended by More Than 850 Boys From Scout Troops of Richmond.

With a rousing rally, in which hundreds of youngsters took part, Boy Scouts of Richmond last night brought to a close their initial Safety-First Week. At the same time the second annual banquet of the growing organization was served. The affair, which was the largest gathering of boys ever seen in this city, followed closely the big street parade which, which Safety-First Week was impressed on the minds of thousands of spectators.

Considerably more than 1,000 persons were crowded into the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Hall, Harrison and Marshall Streets, at the annual banquet and pageant. The Scouts themselves, numbering 850, were in uniform, and they had as their guests several hundred grown folks. Speeches were made and stories were told, but best of all in the minds of the boys was the generous report prepared by Scout Master G. E. Governor and served with the assistance of fifty-five young women.

John Stewart Bryan, president of the Richmond Scout Council, presided over the meeting, and made a short talk. He introduced Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, the principal speaker. Dr. Freeman gave an impressive talk, in which he emphasized the need of keener vision. He illustrated his remarks with aptly told war stories.

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME FOR "BIG HAWK"

The boys welcomed Frank Greenhawk, of Rock Hall, Md., with yells of delight. "Big Hawk," as he is known familiarly to hundreds of Richmond youngsters, kept his audience in an uproar for more than thirty minutes with his stories in dialect. The Scouts just could not get enough of his tales. As a fitting conclusion to their campaign, 550 Boy Scouts marched through the principal thoroughfares yesterday afternoon in a column approximately eleven blocks in length. Though the Scouts themselves came in for much of the applause from the large Saturday crowd that thronged the curbing, it was their handwork in the construction of the floats in the parade that received particular attention. Safety-first signs and placards were much in evidence, carried by Scouts and attached to the windshields of the numerous motor cars that participated in the celebration.

In marching order that equaled the performance of regulars, Richmond's youngsters, rank on rank, occasionally broken by a float of unusually attractive appearance, were shown at their best. The Scout uniforms, the Scout emblems, the Scout slogans were presented to Richmond as never before.

MANY INTERESTING FLOATS

HAVE PLACE IN PARADE

Shortly after 2:30 o'clock the column was formed on the old Richmond College ground, at Grace and Ryland Streets, and headed by a squad of police, proceeded down Franklin Street in second street, north to Broad Street and thence to the City Hall. It was on Broad Street that the pageant was particularly impressive, and all business that had not stopped for the day's holiday was temporarily suspended during the passing of the procession. Doubting on its tracks at the City Hall, the column marched west on Broad Street to Lombardy, where the troops were disbanded.

In the line of march, Scout Executive Charles L. Weaver, Scout commissioners and marshals followed the police on horseback, after which came the Scout bugle, the drum corps, and then the troops of Scouts, thirty-nine in number, in numerical order. Each under the direction of its Scout master, heading many of the troops were floats, cleverly and artistically constructed, each representative of some accomplishment taught the Scouts. There were floats mounted on motor trucks and horse trucks, representing study in aviation, blacksmithing, seamanship, first-aid work, baking, agriculture, electricity, pioneering, cycling and signaling. For aviation there was a mounted model of an aeroplane, ingeniously built, for blacksmithing, a forge, bellows and anvil; for seamanship, a complete model of a modern-type gun and a mine; for electricity, a wireless set and other electrical instruments, and for pioneering, a log cabin. On each of these floats the Scouts presented their respective accomplishments. The squad of cyclists and the squad of signaling attracted much attention.

AUTOMOBILES CARRY SAFETY-FIRST PLACARDS

Following the Scout troops and heading several sections of the procession were motor cars, several containing Scout officials and members of the Scout of honor and other representatives of the Virginia Railway and Electric Company and the Richmond Automobile Club, two organizations that have aided the Scouts in their efforts and accomplishments of making an undeniable success of Safety-First Week. All of these machines carried safety-first placards.

The formal conclusion of Safety-First Week was the banquet and reunion. Preparations had been made to entertain approximately 1,200 guests, and the attendance proved that the figures were not overestimated. The banquet was served in three courses, buffet style, and from the requests for second servings on the part of the Scouts, it is judged that the affair was greatly enjoyed.

ARGUMENT ON DEMURRER

No Final Decision as to Disposition of Children of Bertie Mills.

Judge Beverly T. Crump heard arguments in the Law and Equity Court yesterday on the demurrer filed by Rev. W. J. Mayhew, superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Virginia, in the proceedings brought against him by Bertie Mills, of Radford, for the possession of her two children, Charles and Helen. The court announced that it would take the matter under advisement, and render a decision at a later date.

The mother obtained a writ from the court Friday afternoon directing Superintendent Mayhew to produce the children in court yesterday, but it developed that sufficient time had not been given him to bring the children from the home to Richmond.

ALLEN ALLOWED BAIL UNTIL TO-MORROW MORNING

Petersburg Has Two Day For Benefit of Children's Home Society of Virginia.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

PETERSBURG, VA., November 11.—R. R. Allen, formerly of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who was convicted, at the June term of the Hastings Court, of larceny, and his punishment fixed at two years in the penitentiary, and who had been out on bail pending the action of the Supreme Court on his petition for a writ of error, appeared, with his counsel, before Judge Mullen this morning and asked to be allowed to renew his bail, which expired to-day, until the Supreme Court could act. Judge Mullen refused the motion on the ground that the court had no authority to further extend the bond. The court, however, allowed Allen until 5 o'clock this evening to apply to the Supreme Court or one of the judges for bail. Allen went to Richmond and was allowed bail until Monday morning for his appearance before the Supreme Court.

GRAND JURY MAY LOOK INTO ELECTION BETTING

Code Makes It Unlawful to Wager More Than $5 on Contests for Public Office.

An investigation to determine if section 3621 of the Code of Virginia, prohibiting betting on elections, has been violated during the presidential election last week, will probably be made by the December grand jury of the Hastings Court. Judge D. C. Richardson announced yesterday that he would instruct the grand jury if it deemed it proper to conduct an inquiry into the matter.

Reports have been current for several days that the grand jury, which meets the first Monday in December, would be instructed to make an investigation as to whether or not the law had been violated. "It is the duty of the court to charge each grand jury and to direct their attention to any infraction of the law which may come to the court's attention," Judge Richardson said yesterday. The law relating to gambling on elections is as follows: "If any person bet or wager money or other thing over the value of $5 on any election or appointment to any office or place, to be made under authority of the Constitution and laws of the State, or of the United States, he shall be fined not less than the value of such money or thing, and not more than five times the value thereof."

SAXON ROADSTER

A Car Completely Equipped to the Last Detail for Less Than $500

It's here, on our showroom floor, spic and span, with shining, lustrous finish of ever-new freshness. By all means see this new series Saxon Roadster. You'll find it no ordinary car. We think it will win you on first sight—on its looks, on its costly car attractions, on the way it acts. There's plenty of "pepper" to its performance, plenty of speed, plenty of power, and plenty of snap to its "pick-up." There's more room now than ever before, the seat is larger, the body is bigger, and there's more leg room.

Note These Modern Features---No High-Priced Car Has Better

STARTING AND LIGHTING system built by Wagner. Two-unit type. Most efficient made. In Saxon Roadster now you simply press a button conveniently placed for your heel and your motor is humming away.

DEMOUNTABLE RIMS They make tire-change in event of emergency a quick, easy operation.

30-INCH BY 3-INCH TIRES. These larger tires make Saxon Roadster a higher standing car, give more road clearance, greater riding comfort, and longer tire life. Tire trouble will practically never fall to the lot of Saxon Roadster owners for the added size of the tires gives Saxon Roadster the greatest tire surface in proportion to car weight of any car in the world.

HIGH SPEED SAXON MOTOR. This is a 4-cylinder, L-head, high-speed Continental motor, built to Saxon specifications and design by the Continental Motor Company—the world's most famous makers of automobile motors.

The 4 cylinders are cast en bloc; crank case integral; 23 1/2" bore x 4" stroke. It is possessed of unusual power, smoothness, quietness, flexibility, operative economy, and coolness under all conditions.

REICHENBACH CARBURETOR. This new carburetor is the greatest advance in gasoline carburetion yet recorded. It is of the atomizer type and has 5 distinct and definite advantages over any other carburetor built.

1. Because it breaks up the gasoline perfectly it adds a full 15% more mileage to each gallon.
2. Its super-efficiency permits the use of cheaper gasoline without impairing the performance of the motor in the slightest.
3. It develops 15% more power.
4. It makes starting in cold weather easy.
5. It makes for far smoother performance at low-speed and gives far faster "pick-up."

THREE SPEED TRANSMISSION. Among high-quality cars it is the only type of transmission used. Its advantages are threefold. On hills it enables you to get far more speed on less power. It gives 25% swifter acceleration. And it protects the motor from over-heating and over-working because the proper speed can be maintained under all road conditions. A car which has not a three-speed transmission simply cannot compare with the Saxon Roadster in flexibility and efficiency.

TIMKEN AXLES. Timken axles are conceded to be the finest axles manufactured. Throughout the chassis are the famous HYATT QUIET bearings—another costly car attraction.

STREAMLINE BODY. Its streamline design is another piece of evidence which establishes the superiority of Saxon Roadster in the low-priced field.

HONEYCOMB RADIATOR. The honeycomb radiator assures you that your Saxon will always keep cool. You can pull for mile after mile through heavy sand, on low, without the water in your radiator coming to a boil.

ATWATER - KENT IGNITION SYSTEM. This ignition system is regarded as one of the best and most efficient systems on the market. The highest priced cars can have no better.

EASY RIDING. Saxon Roadster is the easiest riding, most comfortable, low-priced roadster in the world. The long, resilient springs are made of the best quality vanadium steel. The spring suspension is of the cantilever design—the most approved type known. The seat is 40 inches wide, and there's plenty of leg room.

NEW STYLE TOP with Grecian rear bow enhances the attractiveness of this car's appearance.

ELECTRIC HORN, another fine car convenience; tire carrier at rear; speedometer; ventilating windshield; adjustable pedals; vanadium steel cantilever springs; and twenty more refinements.

Part for part—considering both the number and quality of Saxon Roadster features—we believe it is the biggest motor car value on the market. $495 f. o. b. Detroit.

We have a few of the old series Saxon Four, electrically equipped, in sixty-inch tread, which we are offering at a special price. No more sixty-inch tread cars obtainable from the factory.
